Purpose

To provide the Electoral Commission of Queensland (ECQ) staff and returning officers with guidance to administer electronically assisted voting (EAV) under the Local Government Electoral Act 2011 for the benefit of voter accessibility in Queensland.

Scope

The Local Government Electoral Act 2011 provides that an elector may cast an electronically assisted vote in a local government election¹ if the elector:

- (a) can not vote without assistance because the elector has an impairment or an insufficient level of literacy; or
- (b) can not vote at a polling booth because of an impairment; or
- (c) is a member of a class of electors prescribed under a regulation.

The Local Government Electoral Regulation 2012 prescribes special postal voters and distance voters as electors who may cast an EAV in a local government election.

Note that for the purposes of a local government by-election, a distance voter includes any elector who can not vote at a polling booth during the voting period for the by-election (for example, the elector will be absent from the elector's local government area or the division of the local government area for the whole of the voting period by the by-election).

Application

This procedure applies to all staff performing functions linked to how an elector may cast an electronically assisted vote for a local government election.

Procedure

1. EAV for local government elections

EAV procedures for local government elections provide for the following:

- 1.1. Registration of electors who are eligible for EAV: to register for an EAV, electors must meet the eligibility criteria in the Local Government Electoral Act 2011.
 - Registration will be available from the commencement of pre-poll.
 - Registration will close at 12.00 noon on election day.
 - Registration enables the ECQ telephone operator to use the ECQ Online Application System. The Online Application System is linked to the Queensland electoral roll.
 - To register, an elector must first contact the ECQ's EAV voting service by using the EAV telephone number and provide their name, date of birth and residential address.

¹ Unless the electoral commissioner has decided that electronically assisted voting is not to be used in accordance with section 75D of the Local Government Electoral Act 2011.

- The ECQ telephone operator must verify the elector's details against the electoral roll.
 - If an elector is not listed on the electoral roll, they cannot be registered for EAV.
 - If unable to vote using EAV, the elector may be referred to the Australian Electoral Commission and/or offered alternative voting options.
- To register successfully for EAV an elector must meet the eligibility criteria.
- EAV is available for electors who:
 - i. can not vote without assistance because the elector has –
 - (a) an impairment; or
 - (b) an insufficient level of literacy; or
 - ii. can not vote at a polling booth because of an impairment; or
 - iii. are a special postal voter; or
 - iv. are distance voters (including those electors who are considered distance voters for the purposes of local government by-elections).
- An elector who wishes to register for EAV must make a verbal declaration that they are eligible to be registered for EAV based on the eligibility criteria.
- An elector who does not meet the eligibility criteria for EAV or who does not make the declaration must not be registered by the ECQ telephone operator for EAV.
- The Personal Identification Number (PIN) is selected by the elector.
- An elector will receive their PIN and registration when processed by through the ECQ's Online Application System.

1.2. Authentication of each EAV: a voter must call the ECQ to access and to use EAV.

- Vote taking by EAV will commence from the start of the pre-polling period through until the close of polls at 6.00pm on election day for the election.
- Vote taking by EAV will be conducted using the ECQ's Online Application System.
- An elector telephoning the ECQ's EAV voting service will be asked by the telephone operator not to disclose their name during the telephone call at the outset of that call.
- An elector must provide the PIN and registration number to the telephone operator.
- The elector's identity will be verified by the telephone operator when the elector provides the correct combination of the issued PIN and registration number.
- When the elector provides the correct combination of PIN and registration number the telephone operator must use the Online Application System to record on the Queensland electoral roll that the elector voted. By using the Online Application System, the telephone operator is unable to know the personal details of the elector.

- The telephone operator must explain the voting process to the elector:
 - the elector is informed that there is a second telephone operator listening to the conversation to ensure that all voting preferences are accurately recorded;
 - the telephone operator must also inform the elector if there are any scrutineers present observing the authentication and voting process.
- The telephone operator must validate the PIN and registration and identify the elector's electoral district/local government area, ward/division.
- The telephone operator must obtain from the elector their PIN and registration number and verify that the elector has been registered to use the EAV service.
- When the Online Application System verifies the elector's eligibility to vote, the telephone operator completes vote taking on the Online Application System:
 - a mayoral ballot paper of the elector's local government area (if applicable); and
 - the applicable councillor ballot paper pertaining to the elector's local government area and applicable ward/division (if applicable).
- Ballot papers are completed by use of the Online Application System unless the ballot paper is oversized. If a ballot paper is oversized the telephone operator must obtain the oversized ballot paper from a lockable cabinet in the voter taking area.
- Prior to taking a vote, the telephone operator must first read out verbatim all the names of the candidates in the order that they appear on the ballot paper and provide voting instructions.
 - If the candidate is endorsed by a registered political party, the telephone operator must inform the elector of the name of the registered political party as it appears on the ballot paper;
 - If the candidate is the member of a group of candidates, the telephone operator must inform the elector of the name of the group of candidates as it appears on the ballot paper.
- The elector votes by notifying the telephone operator of their vote preferences and the order of voting preferences against the name of any or all of the candidates.
- The second telephone operator must listen to the telephone call and observe the first operator marking the ballot papers to ensure the elector's vote is accurately recorded.
- If the second telephone operator detects errors, then any errors must be corrected. The elector will be notified immediately of any such errors and advised about the remedial action taken to correct the error.

- After each ballot paper is marked the first telephone operator must read back to the elector their vote and the preferences that have been recorded on the ballot papers.
- On completion of the ballot papers the telephone operator must:
 - print the ballot papers
 - place the printed ballot papers in the ballot box
 - advise the elector the ballot papers have been placed in the ballot box
 - mark the elector off the elector roll once completed.

1.3. Recording each elector who uses EAV: as voting is compulsory for all Queenslanders over the age of 18 the Queensland electoral roll must record that an elector has voted.

- The Online Application System that is used by the telephone operator to enable an elector to use EAV is linked to an electronic record of the Queensland electoral roll.
- The reference number issued to an elector for EAV is generated by the Online Application System and is recorded against an elector's specific enrolment details.
- An elector who cast their ballot will be automatically marked off the Queensland electoral roll when they telephone the EAV voting service to have their vote taken.

1.4. Ensure the secrecy of each EAV: preservation of the secrecy of voting is a fundamental requirement to conduct free and democratic elections in accordance with the law.

- The registration and vote taking functions of EAV must be performed by different telephone operators housed in separate locations.
- To preserve an elector's anonymity the telephone operator who registers the elector for EAV must not be the same telephone operator who takes the elector's vote.
- At no time during the election period must any of the ECQ telephone operators change between working in the registration and the vote taking work areas.
- Electors who telephone to register for EAV with the registration work area must have to end the call and telephone again to be put through to the vote taking work area.
- To maintain secrecy of each EAV, call centre staff will not be able to transfer telephone calls between the EAV registration area and the vote taking work area.
- Vote taking staff must advise electors at the start of the call not to reveal their identity at any time during the call.

1.5. Secure transmission and storage of electronically assisted vote, until printing: security arrangements for EAV processes ensure that voting information cannot be intercepted.

- The system of EAV at the ECQ is an in-house computer system with appropriate controls to manage authorised staff-only system access, security and data integrity.

- Vote taking, storage and printing occurs in a secure in-house controlled environment which does not require electronically assisted votes to be transmitted to the ECQ.
- Ballot papers used to record electorally assisted votes are to be securely stored in sealed ballot boxes in the ECQ's offices until counting commences.
- One ballot box is to be used for pre-poll voting and a second for voting on election day.

1.6. Printing, for scrutiny and counting, of a ballot paper for each electronically assisted vote: each elector's vote must be counted accurately to the candidate of their choice.

- Scrutineers are permitted to access the counting room to observe the counting process.
 - Scrutineers must carry adequate identification to demonstrate that the person is a scrutineer when in the controlled environment of the counting room.
 - Scrutineers are entitled to observe the examination of conveyance envelopes, the printing of completed ballot papers and the counting of EAV ballot papers.
 - Scrutineers must obey the lawful directions given by authorised ECQ staff.
- After 6.00pm on election day the EAV ballot boxes must be opened and the ballot papers are to be removed.
- All ballot papers must be counted and sorted into local government areas.
- EAV votes are scrutinised and counted in accordance with the Local Government Electoral Act 2011.
- The results of the count must be entered into ECQ's Election Management System.
- Following counting, the ballot papers, worksheets and documents used in the counting process must be placed into clear plastic bags labelled with the name of the local government area affixed and then securely taped with tamper evident tape.

1.7. Secure delivery of printed ballot papers to the returning officer: the returning officer for an election is responsible for the proper conduct of the local government election.

- Once secured, the plastic bags must be dispatched and transported to the correct returning officer's office consistent with the ECQ's Ballot Paper Handling Policy.
- Upon receipt of the plastic bags containing the EAV ballot material, the returning officer is to:
 - inspect the plastic bags and their contents for signs of damage or tampering, and immediately inform the ECQ if the same is detected;
 - perform a check-count of the ballot papers to ensure that the initial count was accurate and recorded correctly; and
 - record the result at the check-count, even if unchanged, into the ECQ election results computer system.
