

Prohibited Donors Scheme Fact Sheet 13

FUNDRAISING CONTRIBUTIONS

---

Under Queensland's electoral laws a fundraising contribution is classified as a gift. As such, a fundraising contribution regardless of value is banned from being paid to a political party, an elected member or councillor, or a candidate in any election, by a person who is a prohibited donor.

A fundraising contribution includes an amount paid by a person as a:

- contribution, entry fee or ticket or other payment to permit a person to attend a fundraising event or function; or
- ticket in a raffle; or
- bid placed in a fundraising auction; or
- purchase of merchandise.

The payment of a fee by a prohibited donor to attend a fundraising event, even if it only covers the costs of their attendance, is a gift under the prohibition law and therefore is considered to be a political donation.

Furthermore, while it is permissible for a prohibited donor to attend a relevant fundraising event for free, prohibited donors cannot pay for:

- food and beverages, bartender/server labour fees or taxes; or
- venue costs: room rental, security deposit, insurance coverage, transport or parking; or

- audio-visual: microphones, screens and projectors, internet access or equipment; or
- entertainment: musicians or DJ, speaker fees or contract riders (food, lodging, transport); or
- decoration: lighting, flowers, centrepieces, balloons; or
- any other cost related to the coordination or operation of a fundraising event or function.

It is also unlawful for a person to make a political donation on behalf of a prohibited donor.

---

More information about prohibited donors

The rules and requirements applying to prohibited donors are determined in the Electoral Act 1992 and the Local Government Electoral Act 2011, which are available at www.legislation.qld.gov.au.

If you have further questions, or would like more information about the obligations relating to the Prohibited Donor Scheme, please visit www.ecq.qld.gov.au, or contact ECQ on 1300 881 665 or by emailing pds@ecq.qld.gov.au.