Review

This policy will be reviewed annually from the approval date, or if the relevant regulatory frameworks change in a way that means this policy is no longer contemporary for the ECQ.

Purpose

To guide and provide transparency about how the Electoral Commission of Queensland (ECQ) administers the election funding provisions of the Electoral Act 1992 (the Act).

Rationale

Part 11, Division 4 of the Act sets out how a registered political party or a candidate who incurred electoral expenditure for the purposes of a campaign for an election are entitled to election funding, the election funding amounts, the process used to claim election funding, electoral expenditure that can be claimed, and the making of payments of election funding.

Guiding Principles

Public funding of election campaigns, which involves subsidising registered political parties and candidates for the cost of contesting state elections, is an important part of the electoral system.<sup>1</sup> The ECQ conducts free, honest, regular, fair and democratic elections under the Act in accordance with these guiding principles:

1. Efficiency of administrative procedures. Administrative mechanisms and procedures, including administrative paperwork, should be efficient and economical.
2. Public confidence in elections. Election procedures should be open and subject to review so that public confidence in the integrity of the electoral system and election outcomes can be maintained.
3. Neutrality of election officials. The conduct and administration of elections should not be influenced by political considerations. Persons responsible for conducting elections should be politically neutral in their dealings with others.
4. Collection of personal information. Ensure collection, storage, use and disclosure of personal information aligns with Information Privacy Principles.
5. Ongoing review of electoral matters. Electoral law and administrative procedures should be reviewed regularly to ensure that they remain relevant to changing community expectations.

A Human Rights Impact Assessment, in accordance with section 58(5) of the Human Rights Act 2019, was conducted to identify human rights that may be affected by the subject matter of this policy. It has been identified that a number of human rights, including the recognition and equality of persons before the law, freedom of thought and conscience, freedom of expression, and taking part in public life are relevant to this policy, but are not detrimentally impacted.

<sup>1</sup> Public funding for elections eliminates the potential for corrupt practices linked with donations, especially where practices connected with giving donations has led to a perception that government administration may have been inappropriately influenced by them – Electoral Amendment Bill 1994 – Explanatory Note.

Policy

1. Entitlements to election funding

- 1.1. Registered political parties and state election candidates are entitled to election funding for a State election (or by-election) if they receive at least 6% of the formal first preference vote. The amount of election funding to which a party or candidate is entitled is the lesser of –
- a. The amount worked out by applying the “dollar-per-vote” value to the number of formal first preference votes given to the candidate or party; and
  - b. the amount of electoral expenditure –
    - i. claimed by the party or candidate in relation to an election; and
    - ii. accepted by the ECQ.<sup>2</sup>
- 1.2. The ECQ calculates the “dollar-per-vote” amount in accordance with section 225 of the Act. For the 2020 State General election, the approved “dollar-per-vote” amount will be:
- a. For candidates - $1.651; and
  - b. For registered political parties - $3.304
- 1.3. This amount is subject to annual CPI calculations. The next calculation will be made after 30 June 2021.

2. Claims for election funding

- 2.1. A claim for election funding may be made to the ECQ, within 20 weeks of polling day for an election, by:
- a. a candidate (including a candidate’s agent); or
  - b. the agent of a registered political party.<sup>3</sup>
- 2.2. All claims must be submitted on the approved form and state all electoral expenditure for which election funding is sought. As part of the approved form, a statutory declaration must be completed attesting to the accuracy of the claim.<sup>4</sup>
- 2.3. The ECQ can, before the due date, set a longer period for a candidate or party to lodge their claim. However, the ECQ can only do so if it is satisfied that a longer period is justified in the circumstances. Generally, the ECQ will not set a longer period unless there are extenuating circumstances applicable to a candidate or party. A candidate’s or party's failure to adequately prepare documentation and ensure timely lodgement before the due date is not sufficient justification.

- 2.4. A candidate (or the candidate's agent) who has been endorsed by a registered political party may give the ECQ a written payment direction requiring the ECQ to pay the claim amount to the registered political party that endorsed them.<sup>5</sup> A payment direction may be revoked in writing by the candidate or the candidate's agent, with the written consent of the agent of the registered political party.<sup>6</sup>
- 2.5. For the purposes of election funding for the 2020 State General election, the term "electoral expenditure" refers to expenditure incurred by the political party or a candidate for the purposes of a campaign for the election, whether or not the expenditure is incurred during the election period for the election.<sup>7</sup>
- 2.6. The courts have defined 'campaign for an election' as engaging in organised activities aimed at achieving the election of a political party or a candidate, or the defeat of a political party or candidate at an election.<sup>8</sup>
- 2.7. Acceptable electoral expenditure: Electoral expenditure must relate to the election. The following are non-exhaustive indicative examples of the types of electoral expenditure which will likely be accepted:
- a. broadcast advertisements: television, radio, newspaper, cinema, and internet.
  - b. candidate promotions: T-shirt, cap, photos, business card, sticker, and magnet.
  - c. electoral materials: how-to-vote-card, billboard, banner, corflute, flyer, poster, pamphlet, signage, and delivery costs like letter box drop or postal services.
  - d. miscellaneous: phone bills, office supplies, printer consumables.
  - e. professional services: consulting, opinion polls, research, forecast, data analysis, marketing and public relations, campaign staff costs, scrutineers, insurance etc.
  - f. rental expenses for premises, vehicles, or equipment for campaign purposes.
- 2.7.1. Claiming vehicle expenses: In some instances, a party or candidate may use a vehicle for both personal and campaign purposes. If a party or candidate wishes to claim expenses associated with using a private vehicle for campaign purposes, they must be able to substantiate their claim by maintaining a logbook and recording the following details of each journey:

<sup>7</sup> Section 222(1) of the Electoral Act 1992 was amended by the Electoral and Other Legislation (Accountability, Integrity and Other Matters) Amendment Act 2020 to remove this definition. However, section 441 of the Electoral Act 1992 contains a transitional provision which confirms the now-removed definition continues to apply for the 2020 State General Election.

<sup>8</sup> Australian Institute for Progress Ltd v The Electoral Commission of Queensland & Ors [2020] QSC 54 (at paragraphs [98]-[99] and [149]-[150]) (Applegarth J).

- a. Date of journey;
- b. Kilometres travelled (i.e. odometer reading at start and end of journey);
- c. Campaign or personal journey;
- d. If a campaign journey, the purpose of the journey (i.e. how does the journey relate to the campaign); and
- e. Registration of vehicle used.

2.7.2. When lodging a claim for vehicle expenses, a copy of the relevant part of the logbook must be provided. When determining how much is claimable for campaign related vehicle expenses, the ECQ will follow the below methodology (subject to the maximum entitlements, outlined in Paragraph 1.1 above). Claimants will need to:

- a. Keep a logbook of all journeys undertaken.
- b. Calculate your campaign-use percentage by
  - i. dividing the distance travelled for campaign purposes by the total distance travelled since your first campaign trip; and
  - ii. then multiplying by 100.
- c. Add up your total car expenses for the period between your first campaign journey and your final campaign journey.
- d. Multiply your total car expenses by your campaign-use percentage.

2.7.3. Where a candidate chooses not to use their own vehicle, and instead hires a vehicle which is then used solely for campaign purposes, the candidate can claim all costs associated with the hire and running of that vehicle.

2.8. Excluded expenditure: Where a registered political party or candidate incurs expenditure unrelated to an election, the expenditure cannot be claimed. For example, expenses linked to a registered political party's financial management, such as investment costs are not electoral expenditure and cannot be claimed. Similarly, goods or services which only have a tangential connection to the election cannot be claimed.

2.8.1. Examples of expenditure which will generally not be claimable include:

- a. purchase of IT equipment which will continue to be used by the claimant after the election: televisions, computers, laptops, printers, hard drives, radio, microphone, mobile phone, headset, projector, lighting system, camera, drone, multimedia, video, speakers, console.
- b. capital expenditure: building, motor vehicle, trailer, bike includes upkeep or repairs.

- c. fees and charges: candidate nomination fee, political party memberships, fines or penalties, subscriptions, legal expenses, bank fees, dry cleaning, lease PO Box.
- d. furniture and fixtures: desks, tables, chairs, storage, and office accessories.
- e. miscellaneous: newspapers, magazines, thank you cards to constituents.

2.9. GST and election funding claims: On 27 October 2020, the Supreme Court of Queensland ruled, in effect, that the ECQ should not accept GST as electoral expenditure for the purposes of election funding claims, if the claimant was registered with the Australian Taxation Office (ATO) for GST purposes.<sup>9</sup> This is because the claimant will instead be able to claim GST input tax credits as part of their usual tax arrangements. To give effect to this ruling, claimants will be required to declare to the ECQ whether they are registered for GST. If they are registered, the ECQ will not accept GST expenses as electoral expenditure for election funding purposes.

2.10. Claims cannot be made by a claimant for electoral expenditure relating to other elections (such as local government elections).

3. Assessing claims of election funding

3.1. The ECQ must, after receiving a claim:

- a. decide whether to accept or refuse the claim, in whole or in part; and
- b. to the extent the ECQ accepts the claim, pay the amount required by section 232 of the Act.<sup>10</sup>

3.2. In assessing whether to either accept or to refuse a claim for election funding in whole or in part, the ECQ must only consider:

- a. whether expenditure claimed is electoral expenditure; and
- b. if the expenditure claimed is electoral expenditure –
  - i. whether the electoral expenditure was incurred for the election; and
  - ii. whether the claimant is entitled under the Act to the amount claimed.<sup>11</sup>

3.3. The ECQ may, by written notice, require the claimant to provide further information about the claim. If a response to a written notice is not provided by the due date, the ECQ may finalise the matter based on the information provided in the original claim.<sup>12</sup>

- 3.4. Given the high volume of claims after an election, the ECQ will generally prioritise assessments based on the order of receipt. However, the ECQ will deprioritise consideration of a claim if:
- a. the claimant has not lodged an Election Summary Return (as required by sections 261, 262, and 283 of the Act); or
  - b. records in support of a claim are unclear, illegible or provide uncertainty about the nature of the expenditure.
- 3.5. If accepting a claim, the ECQ will give the claimant a notice which confirms the amount being paid.
- 3.6. If refusing a claim, in whole or in part, the ECQ will give the claimant a notice which states the reasons for the refusal.<sup>13</sup>

4. Reconsideration of election funding claim decision

- 4.1. If a claim was refused, in whole or in part, the claimant may apply to the ECQ for a reconsideration of the decision. An application for reconsideration must be in writing and set out the basis upon which the claimant believes the decision should be reconsidered.<sup>14</sup>
- 4.2. The application must be made within 28 days after the day on which the claimant was notified of the refusal.
- 4.3. The ECQ can extend the period by which an application for consideration has to be made, but only before the original 28-day deadline passes. The ECQ will generally only allow for a longer period if justified in the circumstances.<sup>15</sup>
- 4.4. On receiving an application for reconsideration the ECQ will reconsider the decision and either:
- a. affirm the original decision to refuse; or
  - b. vary the original decision to refuse; or
  - c. set aside the original decision to refuse and make another decision.<sup>16</sup>
- 4.5. The ECQ will give the claimant who made the application a notice stating the decision (and reasons) on the reconsideration.<sup>17</sup> If, because of the reconsideration decision, an additional amount is payable to the claimant, the ECQ will pay the amount within 20 days of the reconsideration decision being made.<sup>18</sup>

- 4.6. The ECQ may vary a decision to accept a claim of electoral expenditure if the ECQ is satisfied –
- a. the amount of electoral expenditure should not have been accepted; or
  - b. only a lesser amount of electoral expenditure should have been accepted.<sup>19</sup>
- 4.7. If the ECQ varies an earlier decision, the claimant affected may apply to the ECQ for a reconsideration of the matter, as outlined above.<sup>20</sup>
- 4.8. If the ECQ makes a variation decision, and the total amount of election funding originally paid exceeds the amount payable under the new decision,
- a. the amount of the excess is deemed an overpayment to the claimant; and
  - b. the overpayment may be recovered by the ECQ as a debt due to the State.
- 4.9. The ECQ may seek to recover an amount of election funding where the evidence suggests that recovery action is warranted in the public interest.<sup>21</sup>

5. Deduction of amount owing from election funding

- 5.1. If a candidate or party exceeds their expenditure cap for an election, the candidate (or their agent), or the agent of the registered political party, is liable to pay double the amount in excess of the cap, as a debt due to the State.<sup>22</sup>
- 5.2. The ECQ is empowered to deduct any amounts which may be payable to the State from any amount the ECQ owes to the person, including (for example) a claim for election funding.<sup>23</sup>
- 5.3. As outlined above, the ECQ will deprioritise funding claims which relate to a claimant who has not lodged their election summary return. This will allow the ECQ to conduct a preliminary assessment of a claimant's level of compliance with expenditure cap laws before disbursing public funds.
- 5.4. The ECQ may deduct an amount of election funding where there is sufficient evidence to indicate non-compliance with expenditure cap amounts, and the ECQ considers a deduction to be warranted in the public interest.
- 5.5. Claimants will be advised of any deductions in writing, at the same time they are advised of the outcome of their funding claim.
